Investor Information

Title: GH01 – Options

Strategy Objectives & Approach

The strategy implements an option selling strategy on broad based indices in the USA with a hedge against the VIX. The strategy is rule based and uses portfolio margin for leverage. Options contracts are kept to a maximum of five weeks to leverage the time value decay. Positions are entered in to daily. The fund manager trades against indices that have expanded weekly contracts available, allowing rolling contracts and continual dollar cost averaging.

How the strategy stands out?

The strategy is market neutral and makes good returns under most market conditions. Significant bear markets are required for loss, but following market instability leads to quick recovery.

The strategy is not well correlated with traditional indices, providing an excellent alternative investment opportunity to improve diversification in a portfolio.

Key Staff Overview

The founder and manager, PhD, MBA, managing partner is a physician who has significant advanced research experience in extracting meaningful data for an almost randomly varying signal, the electroencephalogram (EEG). This research has been developed into a successful commercial application. He has been an active trader for 25 years. After obtaining his MBA at Emory University, Atlanta in 1998, he used his research background to develop a trading strategy that would allow an investor to generate income, more or less independently of market movements. He has spent time developing, refining and back testing the strategies that will be used for trading in the fund, LP. He has traded these strategies actively since 2010.

Second manager has graduated from Emory University in 2001 with a BA in Math & Computer Science and a BS in Economics. He has spent the last 11 years working in technology startups varying from cutting edge, semantic search; power monitoring and cable diagnostic tools; music instruction; and non drug, dementia care. He started providing modeling support for the fund option strategy in 2010 and has been continuously involved in development since then. He has been actively trading since 2011.
